14TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

In today’s gospel, Lk 10:1-20, Jesus reminds us, in verse 9, that: the Kingdom of God is at hand. There is an urgency in Jesus’ call to proclaim this good news in the midst of an evil generation. It seems that we are in the same situation today, almost two thousand years later! Are we ready to heed the call as laborers for the gospel? Yes, this is a direct call for priests, deacons and religious, but it is also a call for all Christians to propagate the message of Jesus and bring hope to the world. I cannot help but think of our dear seminarian, Jason Marshall, whose memorial we celebrated here on Saturday, June 29th after his untimely death in the bus accident coming back from Denver on Sunday, June 23rd. Many of you know that Jason’s vocation was a second vocation after his career as an inspector with the health department in New York City. Once he realized the Lord’s call, Jason gave his all in pursuing the priestly life. While he was but a few years away from Ordination to the Priesthood, Jason sacrificed his life by taking the wheel of the bus which was out of control. Jason died so that others might live and in fact all the others on board were saved, except for the bus driver Anthony Padilla. Perhaps we are not called to such a dramatic service, but we are all called to offer our lives back to God who gives us life in order that we might bring many others to the Lord. When we follow this path of evangelizing the world with the good news of grace and mercy in Christ, we will indeed be consoled despite the trials and tribulations involved. The Lord speaks through the prophet Isaiah 65:17 saying...I am about to create new heavens and a new earth; the former things shall not be remembered or come to mind. Then in today’s first reading the Lord says, in Isaiah 66:13, ...as a mother comforts her child, so will I comfort you... These words give us hope in the divine plan which ends in victory which is why St. Paul can say, in Gal 6:14, May I never boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ... We know that the cross is not the end of the road because there is the third day triumph of the resurrection. May the Risen Savior triumph in our lives and our world!

CATHOLIC ETIQUETTE

As the warm weather is upon us in full force, it is time to remember that God’s house is a place of worship and not a beach club. When you come into the sanctuary of the church, prepare yourself with modest dress and silent wonder as you present yourself to Jesus Christ the Lord. In addition, if your little ones are agitated, do not hesitate to take them to the vestibule or to the cry room until they can calm down and return to the sanctuary. Please do not allow your children to go to the restroom alone but accompany them so that no harm should come to them.

Let us also show respect for God and neighbor by giving people the quiet they need to prepare themselves for the sacred mysteries. Visiting one’s neighbor can take place in the vestibule and in the plaza after Mass while reserving the sanctuary as a place to pray and converse with God. Let us never distract others from the true reason we gather in church— to worship and praise the Living God!

MEDITATION ATTRIBUTED TO ST TERESA OF AVILA

Christ has no body now but yours. No hands, no feet on earth but yours. Yours are the eyes with which He looks compassion on this world. Yours are the feet with which He walks to do good. Yours are the hands with which He blesses all the world. Yours are the hands, yours are the feet, yours are the eyes, you is his body. Christ has no body now on earth but yours.

A Christian’s mission in the world is splendid. It is a mission intended for everyone. It is a mission of salvation. A mission that requires a great deal of generosity and above all dedication and heart-felt prayer to invoke the Lord’s help. There is a great need for Christians who joyfully witness to the gospel in everyday life. The disciples, sent out by Jesus, “returned with joy.” When we do this, our heart fills with joy.

PRAY REGULARLY

Do this not only as a family, but also individually. When we have a close relationship with God, we can’t help but share Him with those we love. Allow your child to “catch you” praying or reading Scripture from time to time. Our actions are far more powerful than our words.

CHILDREN believe in God when they see their parents acknowledge and talking to Him.

Remember, as a parent, you are an icon of God to your child.

God reveals himself to us as a parent, and this makes the parent-child relationship a privileged place to learn about God. Be sure to ask for (and open to) the grace to be a faithful sign of God’s ever-present, unconditional love. In every choice you make as a parent ask yourself, “What does this teach my child about God, whom we also call Father?”

DECORATE YOUR HOME WITH SYMBOLS OF FAITH
Young children need visible signs of God’s presence in your home. Statues and pictures of Jesus are especially important, since Christ is the most visible and most complete revelation of God to humanity.

As children get older, don’t be afraid of difficult subjects. Sometimes, there aren’t easy answers. For example, why do people suffer and why does God allow bad things to happen? Instead of a generic answer, say that it’s hard for you to understand as well, but one thing is for sure, God makes himself very close to those who are suffering. Remind children that when they are sad, God is sad with them.

Ordinary Time
After the great feasts of Pentecost, Trinity Sunday, Corpus Christi and the Sacred Heart, we find ourselves in Ordinary Time. This name comes from assigning the weeks from now until the end of the Church Year numbers rather than names. It is well for us to remember, however, that each and every celebration of the Eucharist is an extraordinary event; at each and every Mass, we are reminded of God’s great love for us as revealed in the Paschal Mystery of Christ’s Passion, Death and Resurrection. There is nothing “ordinary” about the Mass, whether on Sunday or a weekday. Bring your whole heart to this “extraordinary” celebration whenever you are at Mass!

Please keep the sick and homebound of our parish in your prayers.

Evangelization is not a job assigned only to bishops, priests, and religious brothers and sisters. Pope Paul VI insisted that the “task of evangelizing all people constitutes the essential mission of the Church.” And by “the Church,” he meant the Church as a whole—everyone, including the laity. But for many of us, the work of evangelization sounds scary. We might be thinking, “Me? Evangelize?” We might even be wondering what it means to evangelize. Today’s Gospel reading gives us some answers because Jesus presents a formula for the best way to evangelize and spread the Gospel message. This formula involves both a giving and receiving of Christ’s mission. We give when we spread his message with joy and gratitude, and we receive when we can rest in the peace of Christ, knowing that we have fully accepted God’s words in our hearts. What Jesus is telling the disciples, and by extension all of us, is that we are to bring to all the nations the blessing of God that had been given first to Israel. When we do that, we share in God’s own peace and joy. How peaceful we are says how much we have accepted Jesus in our hearts. The extent to which we share our faith is the extent to which we share the joy of God.
